
15. REGULATIONS

15.2 University Regulations

Your membership of the University gives you certain rights and as well as responsibilities which are listed in the Middlesex University Regulations at www.mdx.ac.uk/regulations. As a Middlesex student, it is important that you read and understand the University's regulations and policies which define what you can expect while studying with us.

Additional regulations in some areas are applicable exclusively to students at the Dubai campus. These are available on the Student Portal at www.mdx.ac.ae/about-us/university-regulations

University Regulations

Middlesex students are expected to conduct themselves at all times in a manner which demonstrates respect for the university, fellow students and its staff. At all times, students must also ensure full compliance with the laws of the United Arab Emirates (UAE). This includes the regulatory framework of the Dubai Government's Knowledge and Human Development Authority (KHDA), Dubai Creative Clusters Authority (DCCA) and all other applicable federal or Emirate-level laws.

Students are ambassadors for the university, and are expected to behave in a way that enhances the reputation of the university and all of its students and graduates, and that is sensitive to our culturally diverse environment. Membership of the University gives students certain rights and as well as responsibilities which are listed in the Middlesex University Regulations in this Campus Guide and at www.mdx.ac.uk/about-us/policies/university-regulations.

Exceptions to these regulations are when alternative local procedures and regulations are in place at the Dubai Campus (for example, for student complaints and grievances or local codes of conduct). Where local procedures exist, these are applied in lieu of Middlesex University procedures applicable at the Hendon (London) Campus. For Middlesex students, it is important that you read and understand the University's regulations and policies which define what you can expect while studying with us. Students are encouraged, with the support of the university, to engage actively in the learning process, to be fully committed to their studies and determined to succeed.

Information about the latest version of all Dubai campus related regulations can be obtained from the Student Office and the Quality Office.
